SKIDMORE SETS HIGH CITY MARK

TOWN ON WEST SIDE RANKS WELL IN CIVIC APPEARANCE.

NO UNSIGHTLY SPOTS; LOTS OF BOOSTERS

(By Vernon Nash.)

That's an attractive road between Graham, Maitland and Skidmore. Running along the river for the first part of the way and winding in and out among the trees makes it a delightful way to go. And they have the bridges and road bed in good shape, also.

Following along this road on our county travelogue, we came into the Groves neighborhood, where Col. W. G. Groves and his sons live. The colonel was in the hay field where a power baler was taking the hay directly from the bull rake.

A bad and dangerous bridge is over the branch between the homes of N. S. and G. W. Gaddy. Men everywhere have been held so closely to the fields that many bad places have been neglected that could be remedied by the throwing of a little fill into several of the grades.

Before arriving at Skidmore also it was noted that John Torrance is getting out his threshing outfit preparing for business. William Booth, a few miles west of Maryville, was also seen working upon the engine. In fact, all of the machines will soon be on the road.

Skidmore Takes the Prize.

A few minutes later we were in Skidmore, a town which sets a mark for others to shoot at in the matter of civic appearance. Every town in Nodaway county has a lot of nice homes but Skidmore sets a fine example in having an attractive city uniformly.

Cement sidewalks are everywhere and all the homes, large and small, are neatly kept. There is less of weedy lots, run-down buildings and other unsightly spots than in any place I ever saw. The editor, W. J. Skidmore, has one of the nicest homes. Another is that of J. L. Teson, just outside of town.

Skidmore also has one of the most attractive churches in the county in the M. E. brick structure which is just ten years old this week. The cement band stand in the center of the business section is a fine feature, also. W. Harry Hoblitzel, assistant cashier of the Farmers' bank, is remodeling his cottage into a two-story bungalow.

I went into the Bank of Skidmore and met William R. Linville, the president, and W. S. Linville, cashier. From these men who have done so much to put Skidmore forward, I learned some of the things about Skidmore of which I have been telling and will tell.

All Boosting for Chautauqua.

These men are among the boosters for the better things who are putting on an unusually good chautauqua this year, with William Jennings Bryan as the principal attraction. A large group of such boosters went out to the Burr Oak community church Thursday night to tell of the program.

A large crowd attended the meeting and forty-three autos were counted in the list of vehicles. Many of the Skidmore men are also enthusiastic gunmen and have shoots almost daily. They are bringing the Topperweims, world famous shots, there for one of the mornings during Chautauqua.

One of the rural carriers of Skidmore should get a medal from the humane society. He has a cover like the top to a prairie schooner fastened to the shafts and extending over the horse. It is an unusual sight. A large banner telling of the Chautauqua stretches along each side.

Skidmore has another unusual thing in several swarms of bees which have insisted on remaining year after year in the postoffice building, the office of the Skidmore News and another in a vacant building adjoining. All efforts to dislodge them have been unsuccessful and "every once in so often" a bee "sits" down hard on some one.

HOW COUNTRY APPEARS

(By I. B. Williams.)

Headquarters Company, Fourth Regiment Band, Laredo, Tex., July 21.—I suppose many of you business people haven't been at work more than fifteen minutes anyway. We boys have been out rehearsing for guard mount about forty-five minutes, had mess, and have policed the street all so early. You see Uncle Sam doesn't allow us to be sleepy heads. It spoils many a good morning nap to roll out so early.

The day Frank Schumacher and I were uptown we went down to inspect the Rio Grande. Several other Maryville boys were there also. The stream is about an eighth of a mile wide at the customs bridge, and at present is very low.

One can wade almost to the middle in many places, but I saw no one attempt to cross the two afternoons that I was there. The stream comes round the town from the northwest, and flows east for two miles and then takes a shoot to the south. Its waters are very dirty. Under the second and third pillars of the customs bridge is a short cut stream.

There is an oblong island about forty feet from the U. S. bank. In this stream and under the shade of the bridge small boys gather in the afternoon and enjoy swimming and indulge in other water pursuits. We walked up the stream a ways and watched the Mexican women do their laundry. While working they tie a rope around the waists of the little ones and fasten them on the bank so that the children may enjoy a little freedom in the water. Just beyond this group were several men teaching some children to swim.

The banks of the Rio Grande are in most places sheer and perpendicular and on their very edges are brick houses that seem to date their existence back to the days of the Indian and the cowboy. Caves here and there check the sides, and paths lead from them to the water's edge. In the doorways sit men and children dozing the afternoon away.

The average Mexican gives one the impression of indolence. It is easy to detect the treacherous Mexican, for he certainly looks furtively out of the corner of his eye, and when you "eye" him he acts as if you weren't within a hundred miles.

Most of the Mexicans on this side are industrious and are anxious to get any kind of work they can find. Every morning three Mexican women come over to the camp to collect laundry. No matter what the size of the bundle is, the price is 25 cents. If you offer a dime the jabbering and facial expres-

FEDS HAD 6-1 LEAD UNTIL LAST THREE INNINGS.

ALBANY CAN SURE RALLY

Winning Runs Made by Visitors After Two Were Down—Several Locals Were Badly Off.

Such is life—and ball games. With the score 6-1 for the Feds at the beginning of the seventh and Thieman pitching excellent ball, having allowed only two hits, it looked like a sure victory. But that Albany bunch, famed for starting rallies when they are needed, got busy in the seventh and ninth and took the old ball game, 9-7.

Two or three of the Maryville boys were "off" yesterday, and didn't play their usual brand of ball. But the whole team went into the air in the ninth after two were down.

Walker of Stanberry played third for the Feds and put up a nice game. Tal Clark of Clarinda held down the right garden for Maryville. Albany has beaten Stanberry four straight times and it is Walker's ambition to help beat them.

Vance was hit hard all through the game, while Thieman allowed eight hits after the sixth inning, three of them scratches. The Feds started the scoring in the third when McCoy singled, was sacrificed to second by Thieman and came home on Miller's hit. In the next round they counted two more on two errors, a sacrifice and two hits. In the fifth the Feds gathered three more on three hits and an error. The final Fed tally came in the eighth as a result of a base on balls, a fielder's choice and a hit.

Rallied After Two Were Down.

The visitors scored one in the sixth on a triple and a sacrifice fly. They added three more in the seventh on four hits, two of them infield scratches, and an error. The big rally that cut the Feds' balloon loose came in the ninth after two were down. E. Summa was walked, Garvin dropped a short single back of first, sending Summa to third. Craven singled, scoring Summa. Stewart dropped a line drive and the bases were full. Vance lifted a high fly to left which McCoy dropped off of his finger tips, three runs crossing the plate. Vance scored when Thieman overthrew first.

Thursday and Friday the Feds go to Craig, where they play at a picnic. The tournament at Clarinda, which was to have been played Tuesday, has been put off a week. Next Sunday the Creston, Ia., team will play the Feds here. The box score:

In the afternoon two musical numbers will be given. Mrs. C. A. Bone will sing "One Fleeting Hour" (Kennedy), and Miss Helen Todd will give a solo, "O, Eyes That Are Weary" (Brackett). The evening musical program will consist of two duets, one by Misses Nellie Wray and Daisy Wood, and another, entitled "John Barleycorn, Goodbye", will be given by two youthful singers, Olive Ewing and Buster Strong.

The eight persons who are to contest for the gold medal to be given by Mrs. Alice Martin Pugh, district superintendent, will be from Guilford, but their names are not to be disclosed until after the contest. The subjects chosen by the speakers are: "A Simple Story," "The Bridal Winecup," "The Two Portraits," "Liquor Traffic Should Be Outlawed," "An Angle in a Saloon," "The Liquor Traffic and the Bible," and "A Boy's Resolve."

TEXAS PRIMARY IS DEADLOCK

None of Six Candidates for Senator Receives Majority and Democrats Must Vote Again.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

Dallas, Texas, July 24.—Although a second primary for the Democratic United States senatorial nomination is necessary, ex-Gov. O. B. Colquitt was increasing his lead over the field when more complete returns from Saturday's state primary became known at 9:30 o'clock last night. Notable in the recent developments was the creeping up of Senator Charles A. Culbertson, seeking renomination, on Dr. S. P. Brooks. This made it still indecisive as to who the other candidate in the "run off" would be. There are six candidates for senator.

The early lead for submission of a constitutional amendment for statewide prohibition was steadily declining as returns from anti-prohibition counties came in.

Figures in the governor's race were: Gov. James E. Ferguson, 153,519; C. H. Morris, 110,778.

The Deutschland Will Stay Until Sister Ship Arrives From Germany —Will Not Interne.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

Baltimore, July 24.—The delay of the sailing of the Deutschland led to a report that the submarine will interne until after the war. Captain Koenig repeated the assertion that the Deutschland will leave when the Bremen makes this port but no further announcement was made.

Considerable activity aboard the Deutschland this afternoon indicated preparations for sailing are continuing. A complete supply of fresh water is being taken aboard the tug Timmons with full steam backed into slip.

Cattle Run Off Ranch by Mexican Outlaws—No Effort Made to Stop Them by Carranza Soldiers.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

El Paso, July 24.—Two troops of American cavalry are stationed on the border opposite Guadaloupe today awaiting orders that may send them into Mexico on a punitive expedition to recover a herd of cattle run off the Reynolds ranch by the Mexican outlaws.

The Carranza commander at Guadaloupe has given an ultimatum that the cattle be returned by sunset or a command will be given the American troops to cross the border. According to reports the outlaws raided the ranch and afterward paraded the cattle through the streets of Guadaloupe, proclaiming a victory over the Americans. No effort was made by the Carranza soldiers to stop them. With Mexico will again be thrown into a jumble.

The most significant news of the day is that Gen. Jacinto Trevino, commander of the Carranza forces in northeastern Mexico, has been deposed and will be succeeded by the "gringo-hater," Luis Herrera, commander of the Chihuahua City garrison.

It is announced that a French aviator flew across Germany, dropping proclamations in Berlin.

The British admiralty reported the British naval forces victorious in a running fight with German destroyers in the North sea off the west coast of Holland. Several destroyers were hit before they could escape.

The Russians are now attacking the Austrian positions defending the main ridge of Carpathians in Southern Galicia. The Russians are reported to have crossed the styr in Volhynia into Galicia. There is heavy fighting in the Delatynz sector and violent artillery duels near Riga on the northern end front, defended by Von Hindenberg.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

Newport, R. I., July 24.—A hostile fleet today tried to force the eastern defenses of the city of New York. Their efforts were heroically resisted by a host of defenders.

This is about all that could be learned here of the great war game which the Atlantic fleet, including reserve vessels manned by naval militia, played off the end of Long Island today. One feature is an attack on the forts by a fleet of torpedo boats and mine planters.

An opponent of Representative Booher says "we want a man in congress who will make himself heard from." The men who make themselves "heard from" most on short notice are the four-flushers who spend the time of the people in getting themselves advertised instead of serving their constituents. Which is the better employee—the one who gives his whole time to his work without ostentation or the one who spends half his time telling his employer what a valuable man he is?

Minority Leader Mann's panegyric on the grand old party, delivered in the house in August, 1912, and still distributed as the bible of Republican creed—in which he refers to the "hell" which wage earners would have to endure in the event of Democratic administration—makes interesting reading in connection with a $200,000,000 wage increase during one year of Democracy in the White House and both branches of congress. Mr. Mann will have to bring out a new testament of recantation.

At least there is one issue on which Candidate Hughes has a clearly announced public policy. He was the only governor among the forty-eight states to issue an exhaustive message against the ratification of the federal income tax amendment.

No man knows as much about Mexico as President Wilson and no man can be so implicitly trusted as he who has both knowledge and power.

These banjo artists have been brought out here all the way from Boston to furnish music for a day at Chautauqua. Last year they played on the Redpath circuit in the east and were such a decided success that they were at once engaged for this tour.

Depend upon it, they are on to their jobs. They play not only catchy, popular banjo stuff, but actually do fine justice to music of a high grade. In fact, it is the latter kind that they call their specialty.

All their banjo pieces are accompanied on the piano, and the volume of music so produced is simply wonderful. They know all the tricks of the banjo and have a lot of pleasant surprises for you that will cause you to sit up and take notice. They have been playing together for many years and have so harmonized their product that the most perfect musical effects are produced.

RAMSAY FOR 'DRYS'

ANSWER SIR THOS. DEWAR

Interesting Discussion of Question in London Times With Reference to British Problem.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

London, July 24.—Sir William Hamsay, the famous scientist, who recently returned from the United States, pens an interesting discussion of American liquor prohibition for a London newspaper. He says, in part:

Any person who is on the look-out for good stories will come home from a three months' visit to America fully primed with any number of anecdotes about liquor in a prohibition state and the various ways of getting it.

For example, if you order in a restaurant car on the railroad a particular kind of drink which goes by the name of "Horse's Neck," you will get a teetotal drink—what is called in America a "soft drink"—but if you want to get a touch of spirits in this drink you mention to the negro attendant that you want a "horse's neck with the collar on," and you get what you want even in a prohibition state.

A person who judges by such stories and by his own experience, if he is determined to get liquor, will come to the couclusion that prohibition is an absolute failure. But those who live in the country almost unanimously, so far as my experience goes, come to a totally different conclusion, because they know what a change is produced in the whole surroundings and tone of life when the getting of a drink is fenced about by so many difficulties.

In the Times of April 1, 1915, Sir Thomas Dewar claimed to have made an examination on the spot of the American system, and he pronounced it to be an absolute failure. I wrote an article at the time meeting his statements with an absolute denial.

The article as published in the Daily Chronicle caught the attention of some people in America, and was rather widely republished. I quote here the testimony of a gentleman whom I know well, a mining engineer—a man of education and of liberal ideas—a man of considerable means, Mr. Omar A. Turney, of Phoenix, Arizona. He republished my article in a Pennsylvania newspaper, along with a letter of his own, which is well worth consideration, as evidence:

"Evidently the English are still undecided as to whether prohibition would prohibit. Personally I have not cared whether I lived in a prohibition state or not. But after seven months of prohibition in Arizona I am now strongly in favor of it. I believe if the question were re-submitted to the voters of the state that the prohibition majority would be larger than before. Crime has been greatly reduced. Policemen have been reduced in number. I have tenants who were never sober after pay day—now they tell me they are glad to be sober as they feel better. Their wives are no longer coming to me with tales of woe.

"In Phoenix stiff fines have been given druggists for selling Hostetters Bitters. Some have gotten drunk on soft drinks loaded with ether. If prohibition did not prohibit, why resort to these things?"

MILK COWS ALONG RAILWAY

Savannah, Ga.—Instructions have been issued by Joe M. Fagan, freight agent for the Central of Georgia railroad, for the employees of the road to milk every cow they find upon the tracks. As a consequence the workmen have been enjoying much milk with their meals recently, and dairymen and other cow owners have found dry animals in the evenings. The order was issued in an effort to make the owners of cows keep their animals off the tracks where they get killed and otherwise interfere with traffic.

671 KISSES TO SOLDIERS

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

Clearfield, Pa.—With patriotism and cheeks aflame, Miss Mary Hainsey, 19 years old, and one of the city's prettiest girls kissed 971 soldier lads belonging to the Sixth Infantry, Pennsylvania National Guard, when the three sections of the train on their way to the Mexican border stopped here the other day. The regiment when it left Mt. Gretna, numbered 1,031 men; consequently sixty men, through no fault of their own, failed to get a kiss from Pennsylvania's most thoroughly kissed maiden.

Daring fate, Miss Hainsey stood on the platform of a car of the third section until the train began moving. She then jumped into the arms of Chief of Police McHenry, who saved her from injury. The engine driver had spoiled a clean score, and sixty soldiers continued on their way unkissed.

CALL IN TIME

If you wish to have your painting and paper hanging done by

M. L. GRABLE
520 N. Buchanan. Hanamo 8183.

When one remembers and speaks of being entertained by old time circuses it is the proper thing to nod wisely and conjure up riots of color, acrobatic stunts, jugglers, wire walkers, talking clowns, bareback riders, all the motion expressed by commotion, and a general air of restlessness that heretofore passed as exciting at least for then it was easy to become enthusiastic over the pretty equestrienne and the clowns' vagaries.

But all this is changed. This has become a serious age, one of skill, novelty and efficiency and all of the modern forms of expression. The Wheeler Bros. Shows that come here August 5 will reflect the spirit of the times and year with a zestful snap, offering a program of a more modern and effective value.

Any one of a dozen feature attractions will be more than worth the time and money. The spectacle "David and Goliath," "The Aristocratic Fox Hunt," the game of polo on ponies, the educated elephants, the great blue ribbon horse fair, Alberta's performing polar bears, the men and women clowns, the daring acrobats, the thrilling midair evolutions, the Pekin Guards, the boy scouts, and the war exhibit, all are calculated to instruct, please and entertain.

FOR MULE INTEREST

WILL KEEP THE WINNERS

Show Is Open to the World With No Entrance Fee—Boone County Fair August 5 Is Day.

The Columbia Retail Merchants' Association has offered $1,000 in gold to be given in ten premiums for the best mule colts shown at the fair grounds at Columbia, Mo., on Friday, August 4, the last day of the Boone county fair. The premiums will be divided as follows:

First premium, $300; second, $250; third, $200; fourth, $175; fifth, $25; sixth, $20; seventh, $15; eighth, $10; ninth, $5; tenth, $5.

The conditians are, however, that the colts winning the first four premiums shall become the property of the Retail Merchants' Association and must be delivered sound and in good condition to the said association at the livery barn of E. G. Davis, Columbia, Mo., on Monday, September 18, 1916, at which time they will be sold at auction. It is provided, however, that the winner of the third premium may have the option of taking $40 in cash and retaining the mule; and the winner of the fourth premium may have the option of taking $30 in cash and retaining his mule.

Handsome ribbons will be given to all premium winners. The colts will be judged by a competent mule judge from outside Boone county.

The show is open to the world and there will be no entrance fee.

This plan was inaugurated by the Retail Merchants' Association for the sole purpose of stimulating the mule-raising industry in this section, and to show that the merchants here are doing their share toward co-operating with the farmers. If this affair proves the success anticipated it will be continued from year to year by the Association. The Association, of course, does not hope to get back the $1,000 in the sale of the four colts; and their only desire i sthat all mule raisers will show the proper spirit of co-operation by bringing their colts to the show, thereby making it one of the big events of the year.

All the citizens there are proud of their two seed houses, the Kellogg and the A. F. Howden. The postmaster particularly likes that business for it lifts the income of the office receipts remarkably. One of the houses this spring ordered 60,000 one-cent stamps and other denominations in proportion.

Both houses are selling all over the country. The Bank of Skidmore cleared a check on a Washington, D. C., bank which was sent by a Virginia man in payment for seed. The business is slack now of course and remains so except in the spring and fall.

The Kellogg serum plant is also becoming an important industry in Skidmore. It is placed nicely a mile and a quarter northeast of town. It has a complete water system and an electric line runs out from Skidmore to the plant. Its business is increasing steadily and the serum seems in a good way toward putting Skidmore even more on the map.

Hard to Decide on Road.

Just before leaving Skidmore we met Mr. and Mrs. Fred Nicholas, who live east of Burlington Junction and had been spending Friday with the family of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Thompson there. We were somewhat in doubt as to which road to take to Quitman, as we prepared to leave.

By going the west road we could pass the R. I. Bilby ranch. The east road leads by the serum plant, which we also wished to see. Finally we decided upon the east road as it was said to be in better shape, agreeing that we would run out to the big farm from Quitman.

So in my next installment I'll tell of a hurried visit to Bilby's and of Quitman, mentioning also the interesting things along the road from Skidmore to Quitman and from that town into Maryville.

ABOUT "THE SICKNESS"

INFANTILE PARALYSIS SHOULD BE GUARDED AGAINST.

Disease Not So Fatal as Is Thought, However, Says Dr. M. P. Ravenel of the University.

According to Dr. M. P. Ravenel of the preventive medicine department of the University of Missouri, the present acute and severe epidemic of infantile paralysis should be guarded against with the utmost care and precaution.

Although not a very fatal disease, as the mortality seldom goes over 16 per cent, says Dr. Ravenel, it usually leaves injury which lasts for life in the shape of more or less extensive paralysis in various parts of the body. The onset of the disease may be very mild, and the seriousness of the disease not recognized until after two or three days when paralysis begins in one or more limbs. In some cases paralysis is one of the first things to be noted. There may be inflammation of the tonsils or disturbances of the gastro-intestinal tract. In some epidemics this disturbance of the digestive system is the most prominent symptom. In some there is a mild form of meningitis or tonsilitis. After exposure to the disease there is an incubation period of from seven days to three weeks before the appearance of the disease. The disease is passed by exposure to the virus, which is contained in the mucous membranes of the nose and throat and also in the bowel. It is most prevalent in the warm dry months.

In prevention the point of most importance is strict isolation of the sick. Insects have been supposed to carry the disease, consequently the room should be screened to prevent the possibility. All discharges from the patient and all linens soiled by such discharges should be thoroughly disinfected before they go out of the sick room. During an epidemic all children should be kept out of crowds. Their digestive system should be looked after carefully, and they should not be allowed to subject themselves to extreme exercise or heat. The use of public drinking cups, common towels and such like should be avoided.

KAISER TO ST. HELENA

Allies Firmly Determined According to French Papers to Give Him Napoleon's Fate.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

Geneva, July 24.—According to the French papers arriving here the Allies are as firmly determined as ever to capture the German emperor and to incarcerate him for life on the Island of St. Helena where Napoleon ended his career as a prisoner. The Petit Provencal says:

"The plan to capture the Kaiser has never been given up by England and France, although this aim of the war has not been mentioned by the press during the last twelve or fifteen months. The fate of the unspeakable chief of the Huns, this beastly modern Attila, will probably be decided before the end of the present year. If he cannot be caught in the field when the remnants of his shattered armies are exterminated by the great offensive of the Allies, his surrender by his people will be the first peace condition. The prison in which he will have to spend the rest of his miserable life has long been prepared by the British government on St. Helena. His quarters there will be far less comfortable than those of Napoleon were. His oldest son and heir, the crown prince, will be executed with Field Marshal von Hindenburg, Admiral von Tirpitz, the Bavarian crown prince, Field Marshal von Mackensen, General von Kluck and a number of the other beasts who are commanding the Boche armies."

BEST POULTRY BREED

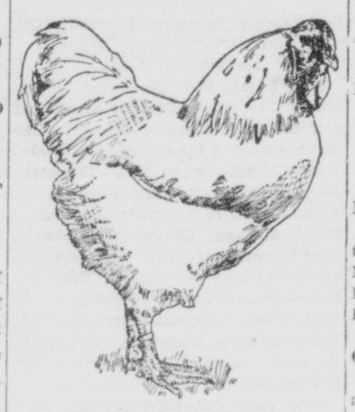
White Wyandotte, White or Barred Plymouth Rocks or Rhode Island Reds Cannot Be Excelled for Dual-Purpose Fowls.

(By B. LARA.)

What is desired in the way of ultimate results must be considered when determining the breed of poultry one should raise. For eggs alone the Leghorns are by many regarded the best. It is not so good an all-purpose fowl, however, and for those breeding for meat as well as eggs, other strains are to be preferred.

For the farmer having not more than a hundred or two chickens, the White Wyandotte, White or Barred Plymouth Rocks, or Rhode Island Reds cannot be excelled.

The White Wyandottes are of medium size, hardy and good layers. They are easily cared for and bear confinement well, although any fowl must have plenty of exercise.



Superior Type of Fowl.

For table use they are excellent, their flesh being sweet, juicy and tender, making fine broilers and roasters. They are extremely popular because of the absence of dark pin feathers.

As layers they average well up, both for summer and winter production, if some pains be taken to provide them with comfortable quarters during inclement weather.

To do this a fairly comfortable poultry house is necessary. This means one which is dry all the time and so arranged as to admit plenty of fresh air and sunlight.

A house built with three sides tight and left largely open on the south side accomplishes this. A curtain, to be drawn tight over the opening in rigorous weather, will add materially to the comfort of the poultry. This does not exclude the fresh air, but protects against the cold.

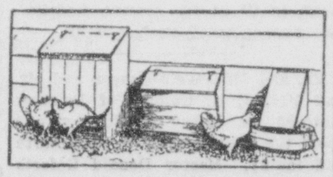
This building can be conveniently arranged without the cost becoming very great, and it should be borne in mind that convenience pays well.

Have all the interior fixtures of the poultry house—roosts, poles, nest boxes, dropping boards, etc., easily removable, so that every part within can be reached and cleaned.

Twice yearly the house should be thoroughly fumigated and then whitewashed inside and out. For this purpose a whitewash containing a small per cent of carbolic acid should be used.

All fowls are annoyed and suffer from insect parasites. This means a loss to the raiser and effective means must be employed to combat these pests, as the birds cannot do this unassisted. Provisions for a dust bath, any time, any day that the fowls desire, will help, but in addition to this the house and fixtures should be sprayed at frequent intervals with coal oil or a 2 per cent solution of crude carbolic acid. This spraying should be done early in the day so that the fumes will have nearly all evaporated before the fowls go to roost.

During the summer the wide range afforded by the farm solves the problem as to proper feeding. But in winter when the fowls do not have insect diet, meat food in some form is necessary. Table scraps and ground bone supply this very well. Lime, in the form of shells and old plaster, also is necessary and great care should be exercised that an abundance of fresh water is supplied.



Feeding and Watering Devices.

At the present prices of eggs and poultry, chickens are too valuable to be neglected. It is safe to say that in return for their care and expense they are the greatest profit-earners on the farm.

VENTILATED FOR SUMMER.

Here we have a French model of a coat so jauntily put together that it ventilates as it protects. The pointed ends repeated give a dashing effect equaled only by the knapsack pocket. The underarm pieces are especially smart in line. A military finish is given by gun metal buttons. For sports and motoring this coat of dove gray worsted is especially chic.

ABOUT SPORT CLOTHES.

Paris, evidently taking a cue from the inquiries of American buyers who were in search of good sport clothes models this spring, has surpassed itself, for never have jauntier sport clothes been seen among the French importations suited for outdoor sports and pleasures. The most up to date models are those which are carried out in either the silk or the wool jersey materials. The wool jersey clothes are more sportsmanlike and better suited for active games and pleasures, but silk jersey will look lovely at race meets and the more graceful athletic sports and games.

The Mail Order Chance

Mr. Herman Rosenthal, advertising manager for Sears, Roebuck & Co. of Chicago, recently told the members of the American Ad Club one of the methods by which that company extended its trade. He said:

> We have a bureau whose duty it is to read, each week, the country newspapers from all over the country. There is not a paper of any consequence in our trade territory that our bureau does not get. This bureau looks over these papers, and when we find a twon where the merchants are not advertising in the local paper, we immediately flood that territory with our literature. It always brings results far in excess of the same effort put forth in territory where the local merchants all the time use their local paper.

As the Commercial Association of Madison, Wisconsin, has pointed out, this statement rather, "lets the cat out of the bag." It lets it out, indeed squarely into the lap of the small town merchant who, while failing to advertise judiciously in his local paper berates hisfellow townsmen for assisting in making dividends for the mail order companies.—Daily Financial America.

Small Mexican Boys Hungry.

For a while about a dozen Mexican boys ranging in age from about 6 to 12 years gathered in about mess times for scraps of meat and bread. It is pitiful to watch them gather up the left-overs. No matter how small the scrap, or where thrown, they dive after it and put it in their pails to take home, which gives one an idea of the Mexicans' opinion of sanitation.

We were lying or sitting around in our tents last Wednesday afternoon when suddenly a short, sharp puff of wind filled with fine sand swept by. Immediately we came to attention. Someone shouted "sandstorm!" The boys gave one look to the southwest and then fell to hooking down the side walls of the tents and scurrying inside.

In three minutes the storm was upon us in full blast. We peeped out a door crack and saw a whirl of dirt, sand, paper and sticks rush by. We could scarcely make out a lone Mexican making his way along the road. These sand storms are supposed to be due here every afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Only two, however, the one of Wednesday and a minor one a day or two previous, have put in appearance. The peculiarity about these storms is that you can't tell when they are coming until they arrive. They may only give you a two minute warning, for which you should be grateful. Anything like a paper, book or loose article is sure to take a leave of absence almost any moment they are here.

Went to See Regulars.

Tuesday, 1:30 p. m.—Gale, a new tentmate of Bethany, Frank and I went over to the Ninth infantry canteen this morning. "Cap" Phipps and Frank Schumacher were there waiting for us and others came later. This canteen is sort of a credit store for the fellows that are broke until pay day rolls around.

Anyone may purchase merchandise there even if they have not the cash. Pay day is expected here about August 5, and can't come any too quick. The amount of writing paper, envelopes and stamps used around here is amazing. I don't believe the boys would be offended at being surprised with a few postage stamps in their letters.

The Ninth is camped about one and a half miles west of here on the Rio Grande. They have a fine location and good quarters. Since being in camp here for two years they have enclosures something of the vacation or camp house variety, and they have made camp life much more enjoyable. They use very few tents.

After making our purchases we took a stroll out to the bank of the river. It is about three-eighths of a mile wide at this point. The bank drops rapidly to the stream about a distance of seventy-five feet. Trenches have been dug and fortified overlooking the Mexican side.

What Mexico Looks Like.

Over in Mexico the country seems to be sandy and covered with cactus and underbrush. Here and there you catch a glimpse of a thatched roof poking out of the undergrowth. At first glance you would think the country uninhabited. We sighted a Mexican in the clearing about three-fourths of a mile downstream to our left, hobbling his burro and probably preparing for dinner. We were able to make out fresh plowed ground and a sun-dried brick house in a thicket close by. No other signs of the enemy appearing, we retreated to the canteen and then back to camp.

The heat is intense today and we are hoping for rain. Beginning with yesterday evening the band is playing guard mount every evening at 5 o'clock. We are expecting our new instruments most any time now.

THIS BAND WILL PLAY HERE ON WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 2

The above picture is the First Regiment K. of P. band of Gmaha, Neb., which will furnish the music for the Emancipation Day celebration here on August 2, under the auspices of the Afro-American club.

This band will give an evening concert on that day which will take place at the bandstand in the courthouse yard

The report is going around that we will be transferred from here in a short time to another point along the river bank. Another report is that we are fixing up these quarters for General Pershing's men when they are withdrawn from the border and we will be sent home. That will suit a number of the boys, as well as myself. But I have no faith in the report. It sounds too good. I'm not worrying about going anywhere until I'm sick. Then I think we'll all go.

THE MAN WHO DIED TWICE.

Mystery of Jean, the Hairdresser of Marie Antoinette.

There are many puzzling features of French history, but perhaps the most puzzling of all, though it has to do with a comparatively minor personage, is that surrounding the mystery of the hairdresser of Marie Antoinette. It is not a common occurrence for a person to die twice, a circumstance which has occurred in the case of this hairdresser, who was known as Jean Antie, alias Leonard.

This Antie, or Leonard, was a Gascon, born in 1758, who acquired a reputation in Paris by reason of his great ingenuity in building the elaborate coiffures of the time of Louis XVI. In 1791 he was lodged at the Tuileries as hairdresser of the queen.

When Marie Antoinette and the royal family made their fruitless attempt to flee from France, Leonard was sent ahead as a scout. He was seized, brought back to the French capital and condemned to be executed as a traitor to the state.

So far as any one then knew, he was duly decapitated, his death being properly recorded in the register provided for the purpose. Investigation has, however, elicited the interesting fact that the ex-hairdresser was very much alive in Russia in the year 1814, and to complicate matters the Paris register showed his second death certificate under the year 1820. The question naturally arises, just how did Leonard manage to evade the penalty that every one had no doubt he had suffered? A great many guesses have been ventured, and the following explanation, offered by one puzzled historian, seems of all of them the most reasonable:

One day while a group of condemned were awaiting their turn for execution the guillotine broke down and had to be repaired. A number of victims had been executed; ten or a dozen were obliged to stand waiting until the repairs had been accomplished.

It appears that one individual, the twentieth on the list, whose hands were, as was the custom, bound behind him, grew faint at the delay. He leaned against the line of officers that separated the prisoners from the mob of spectators. Suddenly a gap opened behind the man. Almost unconsciously he slipped through, and the line closed once more. A bystander reached over and placed a hat on the man's bare head, and the people crowded about as if to hide him. A short time thereafter a man with his hands behind him was seen in the Champs Elysees, walking with the air of one out for a quiet stroll. This man was said to have spent the next night in a ditch and to have made his way to Russia subsequently. If this person, saved by a fortunate accident or by collusion, was Leonard the story explains the mystery of the two death certificates.—Washington Star.
